Hurley Says U. S. Diplomat Sought Aid for Communists

George Acheson, Jr., Thus Would Have Aided Destruction of Nationalists

Washington, Dec. 5 (AP)—Major Gen. Patrick J. Hurley charged today that a career diplomat he left in charge of the Embassy in Chungking sought to "destroy" the Chinese Nationalist Government by getting Lend-Lease arms for the Chinese Communists.

He said the official was George Acheson, Jr., counselor at the Chungking Embassy. Hurley added that the arms were not given to the Communists, and that Acheson later was recalled from China.

Hurley testified that the Acheson incident occurred after he had left China on a trip to Washington. He said Acheson wrote a letter to the Secretary of State, advising the furnishing of Lend-Lease arms and equipment to the Communist forces, and claiming that he had the support of every official member of the American Embassy in the recommendation.

Hurley testified earlier that a career diplomat assigned to Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell in China had proposed in October, 1944, that the government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek be allowed to collapse.

The former ambassador to China told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that the diplomat was John S. Service. He said that he was unable to fire Service at the time the proposal was made because Service was under Stilwell, then the American commander in China.

Later Stilwell was removed from China by President Roosevelt and Service was transferred to Hurley's embassy staff. He said he was sent home. He is now on duty under General Douglas MacArthur in Tokyo.

Hurley made the assertions about Service and his connection with "Yankee Joe" Stilwell in opening testimony before the committee. He said the central issue was what he called the "defeat" of American policy in China by career diplomats of the State Department.

But then at another point he

State's Thruway Work Will Begin in County in Spring

One of First Sections of Route Will Be Built Near Kingston

Construction on the new $200,000,000 New York State Thruway which will run from the New Jersey line to Buffalo by way of the Hudson valley west shore and the Mohawk valley is scheduled to get under way next spring in the vicinity of Kingston, according to an announcement made today by the New York State Department of Public Works.

One of the first sections to be placed under construction is that from Kingston to Catskill. It was stated that plans for starting the work on this section were completed and by spring the work would get under way, however no work has yet been done toward securing the rights of way for the highway which will run over a new alignment generally to the west of Kingston, following the general route of the old "King's Highway."

Inquiry of a state highway official brought forth the information that while the route from Kingston to Catskill was generally laid out, surveys were still going on near Saugerties where test borings were being made to determine the exact location of the route. South of Kingston the route, it was stated, was not definitely laid out but surveys had determined the general course of the route. Just where the route would cross the Rondout creek it was not yet definitely determined but it was assumed the route from Newburgh north would run well west of Route 9-W along the foothills passing west of Kingston near Hurley and cross the Plank road on the Kingston "flats," continuing north along the general location of the present "King's Highway."

Would End "Bottle-Neck"

Construction of this section of the Thruway would eliminate one of the worst "bottle-necks" between New York and Albany, that section between Saugerties and Catskill.

The Thruway is to start at the New Jersey border, connecting with the George Washington Bridge which carries traffic from Jersey routes into New York city. It will go north to Albany, swing west via Schoenectady, Utica, Syracuse and Rochester to Buffalo, then turn southwest to end at the Pennsylvania line near Erie. The project calls for the development

Council Gives $240 Salary Increase To City Employees

Action Affects Workers Under Its Jurisdiction; $17,000 Favored for Project

Tuesday evening the Common Council took action to give city employees under its jurisdiction an increase of $240 a year each in 1946. Earlier this year the various city departments had given their employees a similar increase.

The action taken last night was due to the fact that Mayor W. F. Edelmuth last month vetoed Local Law No. 3, adopted by the aldermen, which provided for an increase of $240 to all city employees. The mayor vetoed the bill on the grounds that the council had no authority to grant increases to city employees, except those under its jurisdiction.

The city employees who will receive the $240 next year by the council's action include the city hall janitors, clerks, steam boiler firemen and engineers, and the dog wardens.

Last month at the council meeting, when the mayor's veto was sustained by the Democratic members of the council, a resolution was introduced by Alderman Thomas Coughlin granting employees under the council's jurisdiction an increase of $240. The resolution at that time was referred to the finance, ways and means committee.

The committee reported last night in favor of the resolution, but before it was adopted it was amended by Alderman Oscar V. Newkirk, and the amendment was approved unanimously by the aldermen.

Alderman Newkirk's amendment read that the last paragraph of the resolution offered by Alderman Thomas Coughlin and seconded by Alderman James J. Carroll,

Seymour's Bail Is Canceled, Is Put in Sheriff's Custody

Haver Enters Opposition To Fixing Bail on Second Charge; Man Has Record

County Judge John M. Cashin on Monday afternoon canceled the $5,000 bail under which Edward Seymour had been released and remanded him to the custody of the sheriff. Seymour, 50 years old, of Kingston, had been under $5,000 bail following a charge of rape, second degree, and abduction which involved a local 15-year-old girl. It is charged that while this first indictment was pending Seymour and the girl went to Martinsburg, Va., and there were married.

County Judge John M. Cashin has dismissed the indictment charging Edward Seymour of Kingston with abduction and rape, second degree, alleged to have been committed on September 23, last. The dismissal was made on motion of District Attorney Haver and with the consent of William Riseley, counsel for Seymour. This is the first charge involving the 15-year-old girl, whom later Seymour married.

A second indictment was then returned charging abduction, in that Seymour took a girl under 18 and married her without consent of her mother. On arraignment under this charge Seymour pleaded not guilty. William Riseley appeared for Seymour in court Monday and asked that bail be set, he asked that the $5,000 bail in the first case stand for both cases.

Opposition was entered by District Attorney N. LeVan Haver, who not only asked that no bail be fixed in the second case but that the bail in the first case be revoked. Mr. Haver said that Seymour while under bail on a rape and abduction charge had left the jurisdiction of the court and gone to Virginia with the same girl named in the first charge and had there married her. Mr. Haver told the court that the girl was only 15 and when the sheriff went to bring Seymour back, the girl refused to return to the state and it was necessary to get a court order to bring her back and she was now being held as a material witness. Mr. Haver said Seymour had previously been convicted of a felony.

German Aviatix Says Bormann Died In Suicide Pact

Pilot gives Description of Last Few Hours Before Fall of Berlin

Oberursel, Germany, Dec. 5 (AP)—Capt. Hanna Reitsch, German aviatix who flew the last Nazi plane out of Berlin, has told U. S. counter intelligence investigators that the missing Martin Bormann joined in a death pact with Hitler a few hours before the German capital fell.

The blonde, 33-year-old pilot gave a graphic description of the final hours of Hitler and his companions in a Reichschancellery bunker, but said she left upon the Fuehrer's orders before suicides were carried out.

The army took her story off the secret list today with the comment that it was "probably as accurate a description as will be obtained of those last days."

Bormann, aide to Hitler, chief of the Nazi S. A. (Storm Troops) and head of the Volksturm, the people's militia called to action in the final weeks of the war, is being tried in absentia by the International Military Tribunal at Nuremberg for war crimes.

The drama of the end bordered on comic opera as Russian shells burst overhead, according to Capt. Reitsch. She said Hitler bearded Goering, Himmler and others as traitors while going through the motions of directing a phantom rescue army that had been wiped out days before.

She reported further: Goebbels, surrounded by his wife and six children, launched into bursts of oratory with all the theatrics of a ham actor. Eva Braun became disgustingly dramatic. Blank-faced Bormann kept at his desk, writing a historical record of the finish of Nazism.

As the intensity of the Russian barrage increased, the shaking Fuehrer, on the verge of collapse, called for repeated suicide rehearsals. S. S. guards, charged with seeing that the bodies were destroyed, stood by.

Capt. Reitsch, who claims the world's glider record and once flew in a V-One bomb as test pilot, said she flew into Berlin April 26, 1945, with Lt. Gen. Ritter Von Greim, who had received a frantic call from Hitler after Goering reportedly had attempted to take over as Fuehrer. Greim was wounded when Russian planes jumped them.

Reconversion Is Hinged on Both Sides Seeing Other's Viewpoint, Truman Declares

Wallace Speaks Secretary Says U. S. Can't Spend Way Into Good Conditions

New York, Dec. 5 (AP)—The nation's top industrialists—gathered amid labor-management deadlocks, strikes and threats of strikes—were told today by President Truman that reconversion problems are "capable of orderly solution and speedy solution."

The President and Secretary of Commerce Wallace praised the war-time role of industry.

Reconversion problems, the President added in a letter to the National Association of Manufacturers read at the opening of the "golden anniversary Congress of American Industry," were "due to many factors, some unavoidable, perhaps, but all capable of orderly solution and speedy solution."

"Much depends upon such a solution for these problems," he said. "I am hopeful, therefore, that the manufacturers of America will approach the problems which confront us now in the spirit with which they approached their problems during the war. This will require not only determination, but the spirit of tolerance and ability to see the other fellow's viewpoint which is characteristic of our democracy."

Secretary Wallace, long identified with the liberal wing of the New Deal in the minds of many N.A.M. members, expressed these views:

"We can't spend our way into good business conditions just by dipping freely into the federal treasury."

"Satisfactory profits for stable enterprises and higher rewards for venture capital in new undertakings are essential."

"Increased output per worker is essential to a steady rise in real wages."

"Call it by any name you like—full employment, full production, or plain ordinary 'good business conditions'—we do have universal agreement that that is what we want."

Wallace said his full employment plan was "fundamentally a declaration of policy and an assumption of responsibility by the federal government, that it will assist and not hinder the private enterprise system in operating at a high level of production to bring about adequate employment opportunities and a better standard of living for all."

Verdict Promised Military Commission Goes Into Recess on Case of Yamashita

Manila, Dec. 5 (AP)—A five-general U. S. Military Commission returned today to ponder the fate of Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita today after hearing final summations in which the prosecution demanded the death penalty and the defense pleaded for "American justice."

It promised a verdict Friday.

Nat. Robert M. Kerr, Portland, Ore., chief prosecutor, declared that "in view of the aggravated nature of the crimes and in view of the measures of the commission recommended that the sentence, if death, be carried out by hanging."

Emerick Alleys Might Be Turned Into Shoe Plant

The well-known Emerick bowling alleys at 482 Albany avenue may be turned into a big shoe factory if the Common Council acts favorably on the request of Robert M. Emerick that the alleys be placed in the industrial zone instead of the present business zone.

That fact was brought out at the council meeting Tuesday evening when a communication from Mr. Emerick was read and referred to the laws and rules committee. In the communication Mr. Emerick wrote that he had an opportunity of leasing the building for a long term of years to a prospective tenant who desired to use it for the manufacture of shoes, slippers, leather bags, etc.

The council's "Good-Fit" company, Fred Heston, manager, will give preference to employment of veterans. It is planned to move the general plant to Kingston from Brooklyn and employ approximately 35 men in the manufacture of women's shoes. Ex-service men will be interviewed on Saturday of this week

Byron Price Gets Hollywood Position

Washington, Dec. 5 (AP)—Byron Price, veteran newsmen and former censorship director, has accepted the vice presidency of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America. He will be in charge of the Hollywood branch of what used to be called "The Hays Office" until Eric Johnston succeeded Will Hays as president of the organization.

In announcing the appointment last night Johnston said Price will supervise research to improve techniques and "toward wider use of the film; extension of the use of motion pictures in education and in training; and development of enlightened labor-management relations."

The job was offered earlier to J. A. Krug, former chairman of the War Production Board, who declined it. Johnston said then the salary offer was $75,000 a year.

Price, who is 54, went to work with United Press in 1912, when he was graduated from Wabash College in his home state of Indiana. He joined the Associated Press the same year.

He was Washington bureau chief for ten years and had become A.P. executive news editor when he was granted a leave of absence in December, 1941, to act as censorship director in Washington.

He went to Europe last September as President Hays' representative to study conditions in occupied countries. His report, urging particularly changes in occupation policy in Germany, was made public by the White House last week.

Breaks With Truman

Pittsburgh, Dec. 5 (AP)—Philip Murray, one of the strongest backers of Harry S. Truman in the political campaign of 1944, has broken sharply with him over legislation the President proposes to end labor strife in the United States. In a softly spoken but bitterly phrased radio address, C.I.O. President Murray last night accused the administration of "abject cowardice," and declared "the design" of laws proposed by Truman "is to weaken and ultimately destroy labor union organizations."

Boy Pleads Innocent

New York, Dec. 5 (AP)—Sixteen-year-old Nicholas Fomkin of Brooklyn pleaded innocent before County Judge Louis Goldstein today to an indictment charging him with second degree murder in the gun slaying of a schoolboy on a lonely waterfront near his home the night of November 30.

Susan Scanga, 16, was found dead with a .22-caliber bullet through her head and her schoolbooks sprawled out beside her. Judge Goldstein fixed Friday for Fomkin's trial.

$16,606 Damages Sought for Apples

New York, Dec. 4 (Special)—Morris and Nat Spector of Marlborough township and the city of Hudson filed suit in Federal Court here today against three insurance companies to collect damages of $16,606.79 for apples that were spoiled in the cold storage plant at Milton.

The Spectors took out insurance in October, 1944, in the amount of $55,000 to cover 14,000 bushels of apples stored in the Hefworth building, which is on the west side of the Marlborough-Milton Road, one mile south of Milton.

On March 3, 1945, a loss was incurred in the amount claimed because of "defective operation and maintenance of the storage facilities," according to allegations filed in the complaint.

The three insurance companies, which the Spectors say have failed to meet a demand for reimbursement, are The World Fire and Marine Insurance Co., from which $3,530.96 is sought, The Philadelphia Fire and Marine Insurance Co., $5,337.87, and The Mercury Insurance Co., $3,337.97.

General Motors and U.A.W. Resume Limited Negotiations

Detroit, Dec. 5 (AP)—Resumption of negotiations between striking C.I.O. auto workers and General Motors on the company's complaint of illegal picketing activity were postponed today at the request of the union.

Farm Directors Hold Local Parley To Discuss Loans

About 50 directors and officers of 14 National Farm Loan Associations in the Hudson valley area met in a special conference at the Governor Clinton Hotel Monday, the meeting being preceded by a dinner at noon.

Clifford E. Kelsey of Campbell Hall, a director of the Orange County Association, was named to succeed himself as a member of the 11-man advisory committee.

Among Associations represented were the Ulster Association of Kingston, the Ellenville Association, and others from Orange, Dutchess, Greene, Sullivan counties and Long Island.

The Kingston meeting was one of 11 conferences being held to elect advisory committee members.

Gas on Stomach

When more stomach acid is needed, stomach acid is needed. The stomach acid is needed for the digestion of food. The stomach acid is needed for the digestion of food. The stomach acid is needed for the digestion of food.

The committee works with officials of the Federal Land Bank at Springfield in improving loan service to farmers veterans and others who wish to farm. Mr. Kelsey, reporting for 1945, said the committee had aided in the development of a program under which the associations have increased responsibilities for making and servicing loans. Of the 150 associations in the northeast 132 are already operating under the program and loan service has been speeded up.

MacDonald G. Newcomb, president of the Land Bank, attended the meeting and reported progress made in improving the financial condition of the associations. Because of losses sustained in foreclosure of loans on real estate the capital stock in five of the 14 associations in the Hudson valley area is worth less than par. As a result these associations have been unable to pay stockholders for their stock and now owe over $70,000 to nearly 300 Hudson valley farmers who own stock in the associations and who have paid their loans in full. Among associations whose stock has been impaired is that of the Ellenville Association. Under a plan offered to all impaired associations in the northeast last October, the Land Bank plans to provide them with sufficient money to return their stock to par value. At present $776,000 is owed to 6,800 farmers in the northeast credit district, including the $480,000 to 3,700 New York farmers by impaired associations.

Apartment Is Damaged

New York, Dec. 5 (AP)—An explosion which could be heard from Greenwich Village to Times Square wrecked most of the ninth floor of the smart London Terrace apartment building last night, killing one man and injuring a woman. The blast apparently was caused by illuminating gas, the fire department said, and originated in one of the ninth floor apartments. Killed in the explosion was a man identified as Arthur A. Cohen, sales representative of a west coast silk company. He was wearing a dark suit, a white shirt, a red tie, and a white pocket square. He was standing near a window when the explosion occurred, which sprinkled debris and broken glass on pavements below.

any orders he has gone to have himself at Berchtesgaden. "Hitler shouted, 'nothing has been spared me. No allegiances are kept, no 'honor' lived up to, no disappointments that I have not had, no betrayals that I have not experienced, and now this above all else!'"

Greim and Capt. Reitsch were promised they could stay after they asked to remain in the bunker.

Afterwards Hitler came to her and in a low voice said, "Hanna, you belong to those who will die with me. Each of us has a vial of poison such as this, and handed here one for herself and one for Greim."

"I do not wish that even one of us falls to the Russians alive, nor do I wish our bodies to be found by them," said Hitler.

Hitler told her how he was counting on the army of General Wenck, moving up from the south, to drive the Russians back. Later she learned that Wenck's forces had been wiped out days before. She identified, among others, the Bunker, Goebbels, his wife and their six children, State Secretary Neumann Havel from Ribbentrop's office, Admiral Fozz, a representative of Doenitz, General Krebs of the infantry, Bormann, Eva Braun, Hitler's personal pilot Hansel Bauer, and Obergroeben Braun's sister.

Fegelen disappeared late the next afternoon, reportedly attempting to escape in civilian clothes as a refugee. He was ordered shot as a deserter.

Goebbels was "insanely incensed over Goering's treachery. He strode about his small luxurious quarters like an animal."

Frau Goebbels was "a very brave woman." Goebbels' children, ranging in ages from three to 12, sang for their "Uncle Fuehrer" and seemed to enjoy being in "the cave."

Polished Her Nails

Eva Braun spent most of her time "polishing her fingernails and changing her clothes," remarking over and over again: "Poor, poor Adolf, deserted by everyone, betrayed by all."

Bormann "moved about very little. He kept instead very close to his writing desk."

Hitler's manner and physical condition had "sunk to the lower depths. He would stride about the shelter waving a road map that sweat of his hands, planning Wenck's campaign. "He was like a young boy saying at war."

On the night of April 27, as the Russian bombardment reached its highest peak, "another suicide council was called by the Fuehrer. The last instructions were given. . . . Then everyone made little speeches, swearing allegiance to the Fuehrer and to Germany."

The news of Himmler's armistice bid to the Allies on April 29 came as "the greatest blow of all. Hitler raged like a mad man. . . . He sank into a stupor and for a time the entire bunker was silent."

With the report that the Russians would launch an attack to overrun the chancellery on the morning of April 30, Hitler, with a chalk white face went to Greim's room and slumped down on the edge of the bed.

"One only hope is Wenck," he said, "and to make his every available aircraft to cover his approach."

Hitler then ordered Greim and Capt. Reitsch to make a get-away to deliver the order, as communications had failed. A small armored vehicle took them to a plane and they took off on a broad street leading from Brandenburg.

said American policy actually was not entirely defeated but only "to some extent." He declared that in line with that policy he had succeeded in sustaining China as an ally, sustaining the government of Chiang Kai Shek, keeping the Chinese Army in the war and maintaining harmonious Chinese-American relations.

Hurley told the committee he would not have resigned as ambassador to China if Secretary of State Byrnes had made an earlier pronouncement on the United States policy in the Far East.

He read the committee a letter from Byrnes addressed to Rep. Anderson (R-Calif.) stating that "we favor the creation of a strong, united and democratic China which will contribute to peace and stability in the Far East and which will enable China effectively to support the United Nations organization."

Anderson made the letter public yesterday in the House and had it inserted in the Congressional record. It was dated November 20—three days after Hurley announced his resignation.

and that was seeking a substitute from among C.I.O. officials.

Mr. Roosevelt, president of N.A.M., said 4,500 industrialists had registered for the three-day sessions. He will report Thursday night on the President's labor-management conference which recently adjourned without reaching agreement.

F. D. R. Refused Approval Of Plans for Joint Action

Washington, Dec. 5 (AP)—Congressional investigators learned today that the late President Roosevelt declined to approve on June 7, 1941, a British-American plan for joint military operations in the event the United States became involved in war.

This was brought out in records submitted to the Senate House Committee investigating the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941. They showed, however, that Mr. Roosevelt's military aide, Maj. Gen. E. M. Watson, told War Department officials that "in case of war, the papers would be returned to the President for his approval."

They also showed that on August 29, 1941, Mr. Roosevelt approved a joint Canadian-American plan for a basic defense plan.

Earlier, the committee was told there was no evidence that the Japanese ever broadcast, prior to the Pearl Harbor attack, the so-called "winds" message signalling a break with the U. S.

William D. Mitchell, committee counsel, read the records in the course of questioning Lt. Gen. Leonard T. Gerow, former head of the Army's war plan division, about military staff conferences which had been held with the British before the Pearl Harbor attack.

was somewhat changed since Seymour had married the girl who had been named in the first indictment. Mr. Rieseley said he was not ready to go to trial in the second action since a material witness was in a hospital. His son-in-law was now in a hospital and his presence was necessary. He said Seymour had called the girl's mother and told her where they were and there never had been any endeavor to leave the jurisdiction of the court.

Would Move Second Charge

Mr. Haver replied that he frankly believed the situation in the first case had been "weakened" by the marriage and stated that the change in the situation was such that he desired to move the second indictment first. This charge is that Seymour took a girl under 18 and without consent of her parent married her. Mr. Haver asked that the original bail be revoked. The reason to ask revoking the bail was that Seymour while under bail had committed another crime, one involving the same person as named in the first bill.

Judge Cashin stated that under the circumstances he would revoke the bail and he remanded the defendant to the custody of the sheriff.

Mr. Haver then moved the second indictment and Mr. Rieseley insisted he was ready in the first, saying that in the second there was a conflict of consent, the defendant insisting that consent had been received. Mr. Seymour stated that he had not taken the girl to Virginia but that she followed him there.

Says Girl Made Threat

Counsel for Seymour stated that there had been only one thing for Mr. Seymour to do, marry the girl since she had threatened suicide if he did not marry her.

With Haver moving the second indictment and Mr. Rieseley insisting that the first indictment be moved first, the matter was left open with the understanding that it would be held until December 10 at 2 p. m. in order to ascertain when the witness now in a hospital might be available. Seymour was committed to jail.

Thomas Rotella, charged with burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry last July 15, at the J. W. McGrath store in Phoenix, pleaded guilty to the charge. He will be sentenced Monday at 2 o'clock.

James Chase and Chester Atkins, charged with burglary, third degree, pleaded not guilty. Louis Bruhn was assigned to Chase and Michael Nardone appeared for Atkins. The matter was set down for December 5 at 2 p. m.

Moses King, charged with grand larceny, second degree, for the taking of a car, had his case adjourned to December 10.

William Parrells charged with grand larceny for the taking of the Slutsky car in Ellenville, also had his case set down for December 10. Harry Gold was assigned as counsel.

William Tompkins also appeared for assignment of counsel and Frank Campochiaro was assigned and the case set down for December 10.

Judge Cashin announced that a will contest would be heard on December 10 at 2 p. m. and jurors were excused until that time. Court recessed until Wednesday at 2 o'clock.

Since there were but 17 jurors remaining for duty an extra panel of 30 jurors was summoned to be present at 11 o'clock on December 10, to serve in the will contest matter.

109 Bodies Are Found

Hereford, Germany, Dec. 5 (AP)—The bodies of 109 American soldiers, at least 35 of whom are believed to have been murdered, have been exhumed at the Baltic port of Luebeck, the head of the U. S. war crimes investigation section in the British zone said today. The soldiers had been killed in damaged planes, machine gunned, or were shot down in raids on Kiel. A senior officer said the bodies of the Germans to be buried in their own cemeteries and take the grave records.

Returns received last week, he said, brought the total to $7,353.71 in the campaign which opened November 19, and is to continue until Christmas.

"With the campaign almost half over," he said, "we have not reached the halfway point in our goal. I know that it is discouraging to those who have given so generously of their time to promote the Seal Sale, to hear that contributions are lagging. However, I am confident that the never failing residents of Ulster county will respond generously to our appeal when they realize the importance of the work supported by these little Christmas Seals. Our job now is to inform the community of how the association is protecting its health."

In Ulster county, Christmas Seals funds are used to finance a mass chest, X-ray survey for teachers, senior high school students and persons in industries where employers are unable to meet the cost. To date, about 4,000 persons have been X-rayed in these surveys. A full time nutritionist is also employed by the association. Assistance and transportation is provided for tuberculosis clinics. The association conducts a year round campaign through various channels to bring health facts to the attention of all people in the community.

"I am sure we can count on the people of this community to continue their support of this essential program by the purchase of Christmas Seals. It is particularly important that there be no lowering of health standards now when all of us want to be able to devote our energy to constructive post-war tasks."

Atlanta, Dec. 5 (AP)—The Young Democrats of Georgia conducted a forum for high school students last night on "Privileges of Citizenship."

The students were encouraged to ask questions. Just ask anything, the forum leaders said.

One part little miss approached Mrs. Marguerite Ryan Ewing, vice president of the organization, and asked: "Well, I'd like to know how I could go about forming a Young Republican Club."

Merry Christmas!
Kalispeil, Mont., Dec. 5 (AP)—Sheriff Duncan McCarthy was given a Christmas present he doesn't want. While cutting Christmas trees in nearby mountains, a woodsman found a strange, oblong mechanism which he presented to the sheriff.

McCarthy telephoned Army officials at Helena and described the find.

"You'd better find someone who knows about detonating explosives," said an anxious voice on the Army end of the line. "You've got a Japanese bomb."

The Answer Was "No"
Chicago, Dec. 5 (AP)—Two gunmen walked up to the ticket window at the Borch Theatre and one pointed a pistol at Cashier Helen Tindle, 38.

"Give me the money," the bandit said.

"No," said Miss Tindle. The robbers, confused, looked at each other and walked rapidly away.

"I think it was a toy pistol," Miss Tindle told police. "I hope."

Phone Calls From Reich

"UNBLOCK" your DIGESTIVE TRACT

And Stop Dosing Your Stomach With Soda and Alkalizers

Don't expect to get real relief from headache, sour stomach, gas and bad breath by taking soda and other alkalizers if the true cause of your trouble is constipation.

In this case, your real trouble is not in the stomach at all. But in the intestinal tract where 80% of your food is digested. And when it gets blocked it fails to digest properly.

What you want for real relief is not soda or an alkalizer—but something to "unblock" your intestinal tract. Something to clean it out effectively—help Nature get back on her feet.

Get Carter's Pills right now. Take them as directed. They gently and effectively "unblock" your digestive tract. This permits your food to move along normally. Nature's own digestive juices can then reach it. You get genuine relief that makes you feel really good again.

Get Carter's Pills at any drugstore—25¢. "Unblock" your intestinal tract for real relief from indigestion.

Some words fool you:

HAIL means...

HAIL means...

but BALLANTINE Ale & Beer

always means...

Purity, Body, Flavor!

A confusing word, "hail." It's the frozen stuff that falls during a thunderstorm. It's also the raised voice that you hope will attract a cabby's attention; but the taxi situation being what it is, attention is frequently all you do attract.

In pleasant contrast to these words that fool you, there's Ballantine. Ballantine always means PURITY, BODY, FLAVOR... the qualities symbolized by Peter Ballantine's famous 3-ring trade mark. Meet and enjoy them in a dinner-time bottle of Ballantine tonight.

Doctors Are Scarce
Chicago, Dec. 5 (AP)—An "alarming" scarcity of physicians in rural areas throughout most of the nation was reported today to the American Medical Association. "The reluctance of young physicians to seek vocations in the smaller communities, at a distance for good hospital facilities, as well as the advanced age of those physicians now so located," was cited as the reason for this concern in a report, based on a national survey.

To travel by rail from Waterville, Me., to Buffalo, N. Y., in 1850, required four days and the use of 12 different railroads.

Former Navy Man, Ex-Wave Added To Y.M.C.A. Staff

MISS LEAH SCHULTZ

Two new additions have been made to the staff of the local Y. M. C. A. it was announced today by Secretary Burt Tandy of the association. Both are veterans of the World War.

Edward Allen, who saw three years service in the navy, has been named part time boys' program manager, while Miss Leah Schultz of Downs street, who served with the Waves, has been appointed office secretary. Miss Schultz was employed as office secretary at the "Y" prior to enlisting in December, 1942. During the years she was in service she had been assigned to duty in Hawaii, and in various parts of this country.

Mr. Allen is a former "Y" member, and a full fledged veteran of such hot campaigns as the Marshalls, Hollandia, Gun, Palau and the Philippines. Most of his active duty was spent as a member of the crew of an LST amphibious landing craft.

The new part time "Y" official is reticent about his navy exploits in the Pacific theatre of operations, but he did make this statement, in an interview, this week: "Palau and Hollandia were tough fights. The pattern of amphibious warfare ran about alike in most of the landings and battles. We would run the marines and infantry and their auxiliaries to the beaches; they would land and secure beachheads, then infiltrate into the enemy's defenses. Flame throwers routed the Japs, and the other arms did the rest. All the time we were covered strategically by the air forces, and supported from the water by Navy artillery."

Young Allen, prior to entering the Navy, was well known in local sports circles. He was a pitcher on the Kingston High School team. He also played on the high school basketball team.

The boys' program activities of which he will have charge are open to youths under 16 years of age.

The north section of the second floor of the "Y" has been set aside for the group. Allen has his office in one of the recreation rooms.

Many of the junior civic clubs, such as the Rotary, are represented on the program, and each club has been designated certain afternoons and evenings for meetings. Physical Director Louis Schuler, general chairman of social and athletic movements, will give Allen assistance when needed.

In the appointment of Allen as part-time manager an important junior feature of local "Y" activity has been brought back to life.

County Legion to Meet With Sargentics Dec. 6

Thursday evening, December 6, the Ulster County American Legion will be the guest of Lamouree-Hackett Post of Saugerties. All Legionnaires and those eligible to join are invited to attend the meeting, which will start at 8 o'clock.

The Lamouree-Hackett Post and their auxiliary have a reputation for being good hosts and Legionnaires are asked not to disappoint them, but to turn out in large numbers.

Among matters to be taken up at the meeting is the making of arrangements for sending Christmas packages to servicemen in hospitals.

Soft drink makers are planning to spend $50,000,000 on postwar new plant construction.

IS IT WISE... TO FIT YOUR OWN HEARING AID?

Not if you want to be sure of your choice!

Proper fittings after careful examination lessen the risk of making some tones too strong, some too weak—of adding to nervous tension and fatigue without ably correcting hearing loss. That's why modern rehabilitation programs for those with disabled hearing include audiometric hearing tests, expert personal counsel, and intensive training in best use of the hearing aid as essential for satisfactory results. And that's why Sonotone sells HEARING—not just a hearing aid. Audiometric examinations precede careful fittings—your instrument is really "tailored" to fit your hearing loss. For safety as well as continuing care, trust your hearing problem to a Sonotone trained Consultant. Write or phone for interview.

Children Will See Creation of Village

The upper classes of the Woodstock public schools are invited to a demonstration of making and setting up a Christmas village on Wednesday, December 12, from 7 to 9 p. m., in the workshop of the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen. Edward Thatcher has kindly offered to show the boys and girls how one can create a beautiful little village with buildings, streams, bridges, a castle on a hill, and trees, snow and lights out of just ordinary things one can find around any house. This is an unusual opportunity for the children and the Guild hopes that all will attend. In bright light, the pupil of the eye of a cat is a vertical slit, but in dim light it becomes circular.

State Growers Join Association to Help Market Produce

To help insure the free flow of foods from farm to market, six New York state farm organizations have joined the recently established Food Producers Council, its President P. C. Turner announced today.

Council members in this state include:
Cayuga Producers Coop., Inc., King Ferry; Central New York Potato and Vegetable Council, Georgetown; Columbia County Vegetable Growers' Association; Valatie; New York Cooperative Seed Potato Association, Inc., Georgetown; Niagara Frontier Growers Coop. Market, Inc., Buffalo and Northern Valley Vine Crop Growers' Association, Greenwich.

Its total membership includes 63 organizations representing farmers in eight states and the District of Columbia.

Mr. Turner explained that the F. P. C. was set up in mid-1945 "to promote economy and efficiency in the marketing of food products through the removal of barriers to the free flow of food from producer to consumer, the betterment of market facilities and the improvement of other practices in the production and distribution of food products to the end that consumers may get their food in its most nutritious and palatable form and that the farmers thereby may have a better market for their products."

Accessible Market
He stressed that "foremost among the immediate objectives of the Food Producers Council is the maintenance of an accessible market, readily available to farmers six days a week," and added: "Beneficial effects of the Council's work already are evident in the recent opening of some markets on Saturdays. Also, farmers marketing their own goods have less difficulty in delivering these goods as the move to secure the free flow of fruits and vegetables gains support and strength."

"Six million farm families," Mr. Turner said, are producing food for the 130 million people in the United States. With more and more farm products going to the consumer in fresh form, their quality and dollar value depend to a large extent upon the speed with which they reach the market. Moreover, the war reemphasized the vital importance of eliminating waste in handling food.

Prompt Delivery
"The taste and nutritive value of food, the result of six or seven months of planning and hard work on the farm, can be destroyed in one day if produce does not reach the market promptly."

"The Council, President Turner stated, has another objective in 'helping labor and the farmer understand each other's problems. Farmers have always given to labor and to other groups the same right to organize that they keep for themselves. Farmers feel, however, that such organizations should be built from within to fill a need and not inflicted from without.

"Farming is a highly specialized business, regulated by nature's sunshine and storms, as contrasted to industry, controlled entirely by man. Organizations and regulations suited to man-controlled conditions in city and factory are not and cannot be made adaptable or workable in the great outdoors, where production is subject to the uncertainties of nature."

SUSTAGE IS SOARER

Few people in South Africa knew what sustage was until recently, but now they know it is wood for making wine casks, that it comes from America and that there's a shortage of it. Last year, $880,000 worth of sustage was ordered from the United States, but only $372,000 worth arrived at Johannesburg, and, as a result, several changes had to be made in the South African wine and brandy business. A representative has been sent to America to try to speed up delivery.

"BRAIN" LANDS PLANES

An electric "brain" which enables pilots to bring planes to within one foot of the runway without touching controls, is said to have been invented by the Air Technical Service Command in Europe. London advices say it will take the plane to the desired altitude, glide down at the correct angle, then return the controls to the pilot before touching earth. It guides the machine both vertically and laterally, making adjustments for air pockets.

During the current events forum mention was made of the election in Brazil at which the women voted for the first time and compulsory registration was enforced. The subject for the day was "Drama" as given by Mrs. Arthur J. Laidlaw. She reviewed some of the outstanding plays since 1942. With Miss Mae Decker.
The Olympian Club met Monday evening at the home of Miss Anna Mae Decker, 15 Lafayette avenue. Seventeen members were present. Miss Mary Hale read a prepared paper on "What Time Is It?" Because of cloudiness, England could not use the sundial and early began to make clocks. Some of the most famous one noted were the clocks in St. Paul's Cathedral, Strasbourg Cathedral and Bern, Switzerland. Household clocks were brought to America from England and clock makers were among the early settlers. Miss Hale said that Connecticut leads the Union in making clocks.

Army-Navy Cage Contest Dec. 12th at Auditorium

Fleet Post Office, Signal Corps Quintets Will Play for Local V.F.W. Fund

Exactly a week from tonight basketball fans of this area will get a chance to see their first Army-Navy game at the municipal auditorium.

William Jordan, activities chairman of Joyce-Schirck Post, 1385, Veterans of Foreign Wars, who is promoting the contest for the organization's building fund anticipates a crowd for the event.

"There's always lots of action when the Army and Navy get together on the field of athletic competition," he said, "and this game is no exception."

If next Wednesday's attraction meets with the proper response as far as patronage is concerned, the V. F. W. intends to bring other service teams to Kingston for the remainder of the season.

Earlier in the year, the Recreation Committee which talked about a State League retired in favor of the veterans' cage plans, and it is understood that the city group will hold to that decision.

Lineups of both clubs are well stocked with brilliant cagers, who got their experience with prep school and college teams, according to advance notices from the New York Fleet Post Office, which is furnishing the Navy quintet, and the base of the Army Signal Corps, Long Island, from whence the Army five will come.

Manager Andy Rossi of the Navy has announced his roster: William Keaveney from St. Joseph's of Philadelphia; Eugene Flynn, Villanova; Frank Sullivan, East Orange Prep; Pat Rooney, Grumman Aircraft; George Portor, Hatherford; Joseph Moran, Regis High-Fordham; William Benya, Farrell High; Bob Kelly, Cortland Teachers; Wallace J. Bruni, Fort Lee High; Robert Wald, St. John's; Bob Davis, Neptune High.

Prior to joining the Navy, Manager Rossi was a student at Baylor University and Lieutenant Fisher, coach, attended Seton Hall. Both of these men, who had chance to watch stars developed, boast about their Gobs, whom they expect to win the pennant in the Metropolitan Service League.

The Army lineup will be announced later.

Comment among sports fans indicate a full house for the service game, which is scheduled for 9 p. m. A preliminary will go on at 7:35 between two junior teams, one of which is to be the Ramblers.

Reserved seats may be ordered by phoning 1925-R.

HE KEPT RETURN TICKET

Not all Scots buy one-way tickets to England. John Davidson, 88-year-old gardener at the Cricketers' Inn, Bagshot, arrived there 70 years ago and still has his return trip half of the ticket, back to Perth, Scotland, on a line long since merged out of existence.

Leonardo de Vinci (1452-1519), one of the greatest painters who ever lived, also spent much time attacking great engineering problems. He discerned some of the principles of flying machines and submarines.

Emerging from a conference with Mr. Truman, Green told White House reporters that while the President's latest proposal for ending strikes was "not acceptable or satisfactory" to the A.F.L., he thought the President was "sincere" in offering it.

Washington, Dec. 5 (AP)—President William Green of the American Federation of Labor today disagreed with C.I.O. Chief Philip Murray's conclusion that the design of laws proposed by President Truman is to "ultimately destroy" labor unions. Emerging from a conference with Mr. Truman, Green told White House reporters that while the President's latest proposal for ending strikes was "not acceptable or satisfactory" to the A.F.L., he thought the President was "sincere" in offering it.

AN AUTOGRAPHED QUILT

A W.A.C. who was wounded

seriously overseas asks: "Do you remember the autographed quilt that you described several years ago? I should very much like to make one during the several months I am still to be in the hospital."

The quilt to which she refers was, like every patchwork quilt, made of pieces cut to fit together.

A certain number of the pieces, about a third of them, I should say, were autographed with a sharp soft pencil. These names were then embroidered and the pieces fitted into the quilt.

As a matter of fact, a number of such pieces have been sent me from time to time for my signature. Most of the pieces sent me were either of satin or felt crepe.

One I remember was of white satin and was cut from the train of a wedding dress. (I have no idea whether the quilt was to be a white one or a combination of colors.)

Boys Give Parties When They Can

Dear Mrs. Post: All the girls in our set seem to give all the parties at their houses. Sometime ago we asked some of the boys who have large houses why they didn't give a party. They said it was always up to the girls. We don't believe this could be true and we'd like to have an answer from you, so we can show everyone in our group.

Answer: Who gives a party depends entirely upon her, or his family. If a boy's family has a big house and is willing to let him have a party, it is entirely proper that they do so. In fact, families of boys often do give lovely parties.

They Share One Piece of

Wedding Cake

Dear Mrs. Post: If the bride is supposed to cut the first slice of wedding cake for the bridegroom, then who cuts a piece for her and when is she supposed to be served?

Answer: She and he together cut the first slice and divide it and eat it. (Surely they don't "keep it to dream on.")

One Gentle Honk

Dear Mrs. Post: When a boy calls for a girl at her house, he is not supposed to honk the horn of his car and expect her to come out. But what about the girl who has a car and goes to pick up a boy at his house?

Is it when it would be senseless to have him go way out of his way to her house.

Answer: I think the girl might honk, but not too loud and not persistently. Since he would be expecting her, he should be waiting.

Rubber Industry's Part in War Gets Especial Praise

Giant Deception Caused Germans to See Non-Existent Vessels

Akron, O., Dec. 5 (AP)—One of the closest guarded secrets of the war—the part rubber companies played in the United States "illusionary warfare"—was unveiled by the War Department today.

Now can be told the story of a giant deception that caused the Germans, just before D-Day, to see fleets of invasion craft that didn't exist, loaded with weapons that never were forged and pointed for attacks that never were planned.

PT boats complete with armament, and landing craft and barges carrying tanks, field artilery and other combat equipment appeared and disappeared overnight and in great numbers along the English channel coast in the hectic days preceding June 6, 1944, much to the confusion of German observers and the high command.

The huge ruse was made possible by production, with great speed and under highest priorities, of pneumatic, balloon-fabric models of the craft and equipment required for this vast decoy operation.

Built to size, and with a close resemblance to the real thing that made them, when inflated, utterly deceiving to German reconnaissance pilots, these "ships" and their cargoes were allowed to be seen in the waters of British ports from which Allied supreme headquarters had no intention of launching an attack.

Were Moved Quickly

Having served their confusing purpose in one locality, they were debated and moved by truck to another false base, again to distract enemy attention and further muddle his defense preparations.

Midway's Fliers Wrecked Jap Plans

Compromise Peace Idea Was Spoiled in June, 1942

Tokyo, Dec. 5 (AP)—American pilots who turned back the powerful Japanese fleet in the "David and Goliath" victory at Midway in June, 1942, wrecked Tokyo's plans to win a compromise peace by holding the Pacific in a stranglehold of outlying bases.

That was disclosed today by Capt. Toshikazu Chima, former chief of the naval operations section of the Navy Ministry, in revealing details of what Japan considers one of the two decisive naval battles of the war.

Chima said the Japanese Navy originally planned to maintain a defense perimeter anchored in the mandated islands, Wake and New Guinea until the Doolittle raid demonstrated the vulnerability of the Japanese homeland. Then encouraged by the relative ease of early naval operations, the Admiralty agreed to establish a more extensive defense perimeter which would spot U. S. task forces and afford more time for interception.

Midway was to become an airbase and key outpost. Its seizure was the foundation of the plan, which included occupation of the Solomons. The Admiralty believed this tightened defense would prolong the war and lead America to accept a compromise peace.

Chima said the bombardment of Dutch Harbor on June 3-4 and the occupation of Kiska and Attu were conducted by relatively small 5th Fleet units. The Coral Sea battle May 3-8 "only postponed" a correlated plan to occupy Port Moresby.

"The Midway defeat changed the course of the war—and our defeat in the first battle of the Philippine sea was the turning point because then we lost the ability to defend Japan," Chima declared.

The World Today

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

AP World Traveler

London, Dec. 5—Britain's new labor government has tackled John Bull's greatest imperial problem—Indian independence—with a flying wedge which looks as though it might go places.

Not only has the promise of self-government for India been reaffirmed before Parliament, but the mother country has given its word that the vast India subcontinent will be allowed to cut loose entirely if it wants to.

Herbert Morrison, leader of the labor majority in the House of Commons, has made the categorical declaration that Britain will not impose any restrictions on the power of India to decide her future. This was in response to the blunt question whether India would be permitted to withdraw from the British commonwealth if her leaders so desired. However, said Morrison, "it is naturally our hope that India will remain of her own free will in the British commonwealth."

All this was straight from the shoulder and unequivocal. But the laborites didn't stop with words. They announced that a non-partisan parliamentary committee will proceed to India immediately to make independent observations and report back to the government. This would be in preparation for the formation of an assembly to frame an Indian constitution next spring after the provincial elections have paved the way.

Lest there be any misunderstanding, however, the government at the same time announced that it will resist "any attempts to resolve the constitutional issue by force."

This may have been inspired by the remark made last week by the Indian leader (Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru), that if Britain didn't take the initiative for India's independence, "other people" might do so.

Next to Mohandas Gandhi, Nehru is the most powerful person in all India, and his words aren't passed lightly.

Well, where does all this get us on the Indian problem? Is this new move going to achieve results, or is it going to flounder out as have so many other programs? We get a highly interesting slant on these questions from an editorial this morning in The Times of London, which for generations has been known as the Englishman's Bible. This staunch defender of the British empire deals with the matter in a lengthy article which says:

"A straightforward program has thrown open the door through which Indians can pass to complete and unfettered control of their own internal and external affairs."

That seems to sum the position up accurately and unemotionally. Those who have followed this column know it long has maintained that the Indian problem is susceptible to solution—a view at which I arrived as the result of an intensive study beginning back in 1916.

However, it would be foolish to believe that there aren't many obstacles to overcome. One of the greatest of these has been the failure of the various Indian political factions to resolve their own differences. During my last visit to India in 1932-33, I talked with numerous great Indian leaders who expressed the belief that the easiest road to success would be for the British government to establish a provisional Indian government immediately, doing so arbitrarily if necessary, and letting the factions iron out their differences later.

One thing is certain: The Indian wants to get his new provisional government going right away. He wants to feel the thrill of self-rule. This desire may provide the British government with guidance for implementing its fresh promise.

Former Archbishop Served 13 Years; Figured in Abdication

COSMO G. L. LANG

London, Dec. 5 (AP)—Cosmo G. Lang, former archbishop of Canterbury, died today.

Lord Lang, 81, collapsed at a railway station and was pronounced dead when he was taken to the Royal Hospital at Richmond.

He served as archbishop of Canterbury for 13 years and as archbishop of York for 20 years. He resigned the archbishopric of Canterbury March 31, 1942.

The Most Reverend and Right Honorable Cosmo Gordon Lang held the distinction, unique in modern England, of having played a major role as a churchman in the abdication of one monarch and the crowning of another.

He was credited with sharing with Stanley Baldwin, then prime minister, the leadership of forces which brought about the abdication of Edward VIII and he personally placed the crown upon the head of Edward's brother, George VI.

The venerable archbishop of Canterbury, ninety-seventh successor in the see of St. Augustine, was closest in touch with Baldwin during those moving days of December, 1936, when Britain lost a king who, in Canterbury's stern words, "disappointed hopes so high, abandoned a trust so great, and sought his happiness in a manner inconsistent with Christian principles."

Before the abdication crisis, none would have dreamed that the frail, aged prelate could raise the ghosts of the prince-bishops of the middle ages by mustering strength enough to blast, almost overnight, a king who had been Britain's prince charming for 25 years.

Throughout the crisis, he was Baldwin's inspiration, swinging all his power and influence as primat of all England into the fight to keep England from having an American divorcee as queen.

While the battle was on he kept silent. It was reported, however, that in an audience with King Edward, he and the Archbishop of York had declined any part in crowning Wallis Warfield Simpson queen.

It was not until two days after the crisis that he lashed out publicly at the former monarch in a scorching radio speech that aroused bitter comments on the archbishop's "un-Christian attitude" from Edward's friends. Particularly resented by many was his scathing condemnation of Edward's gay friends as "a social circle whose standards and ways of life are alien to the best instincts and traditions of his people," and which included many American women wed to British titled personages.

Divine Guidance Seen by Him
Parliament, pulpit and press however echoed almost unanimous approval of the conduct of Baldwin and the archbishop which the dean of Exeter, Dr. S. C. Carpenter, said had saved the monarchy from a "scandal which would have cheapened the coronation, and poisoned its sacredness."

"The pity of it, the pity of it," sighed the archbishop, "who can doubt that in all the events of these memorable days God has been speaking?"

A fortnight later, on the last Sunday of 1936, Dr. Lang again made the headlines with his post-abdication "recall to religion."

"Let us look on all that has happened as a call to re-establish the foundations of our national life," he said.

His only allusion to the Duke of Windsor was: "How often brilliant gifts fail to bear their fruit unless they have their roots in religious faith and moral principles."

Dr. Lang, then 72, stood the stress of the eventful months well for a man of his years, belying rumors of his failing health. George VI, May 12, 1937, he showed no signs of fatigue, although the two-and-a-half hours ceremony kept him standing without a moment's respite.

He admitted that he fumbled with the king's crown when about to put it on, that his aged hands had trembled as he raised the diadem on high. But his voice showed no weakness as he intoned "God crown you with a crown of glory, and righteousness" after placing the crown on the king's head, thus giving the church's consecration to the new reign he had been instrumental in bringing about.

He had the distinction of being prominent at three royal funerals, three coronations and one abdication. Queen Victoria called for him as she lay dying at Osborne Isle of Wight, 1901. He was vicar then of neighboring Portsea and already a friend of Edward VII whose coronation he attended.

When George V came to the throne in 1910, he had become Archbishop of York, with a necessary role to play in all state functions. He paid striking tribute to George V's achievement in giving "a new significance to the name of king" in a radio account of the monarch's last hours.

He never hesitated to express his own and the church's feeling on the grave international issues that confronted Europe through the Ethiopian and Spanish wars of 1935-37.

Public opinion must have been "shocked," he said, by the alleged massacre of natives in Addis Ababa after the attempt on Italian marshal Graziani's life early in 1937. He was bitterly attacked in the Rome press. La Tribuna wrote "This old man takes every opportunity of showing himself off. His speech was a masterpiece of graduated perfidy."

He himself described the life of an archbishop of Canterbury as "an incredible, indefensible and inevitable." One part of the qualification caught on. Mayfairites nicknamed him "Cosmo the Inevitable."

There was an element of fitness in this nickname for the Lang career maintained the English tradition that Leeds parish church is a nursery for those who attain high rank in the Anglican hierarchy. It was here that he first served the Church of England, being curate of the parish from 1890 to 1893. Thirty-five years later, on July 27, 1928, he was named archbishop of Canterbury in succession to Randall Thomas Davidson who had resigned two days before.

Pacific Northwest Storm Kills Three; 20 Fliers Sought

Seattle, Dec. 5 (AP)—A wild gale raged on into the north today after leaving at least three dead in the Pacific Northwest last night, toppling trees and power poles and unroofing buildings in Oregon and Washington and menacing the ships crowding down Puget Sound with returning servicemen and freight.

The gale rushed at 50 miles per hour over much of the region and gusts reached 84 miles an hour.

Four storm-delayed transports carrying 5,078 servicemen and civilians are due to arrive at San Francisco today. Three of the vessels are en route to this country from the Philippines.

One effect of Manila's destruction probably will be that street car lines will not be restored to operation. Manila Electric Co. now operates 45 buses it got from the U. S. Army and expects shortly to have at least 100 on the Philippine capital's streets.

from Manila, while the fourth, the Adalberto Lykes, is bringing home 1,567 passengers from Shanghai. Including members of the 32nd Carrier Squadron, 32nd Troop Service Group. The ships were scheduled to reach port yesterday.

Portland, Ore., Dec. 5 (AP)—Authorities directing a search of the storm battered Pacific Northwest and Alaska for 20 fliers, a civilian mail pilot and 19 servicemen, missing as a result of six airplane crashes in the past 10 days expressed doubt today that many would be found alive.
